The activities below will help to create a fun sensory experience with your child as you read through this story at home.

Story	Objects/Activity
There once was a little girl called Sophie, and one night she woke up to see a giant walking outside her bedroom window!	With a two spatulas or spoons tap your child's tray or arms in a walking beat, one after the other.
The giant was blowing dreams into all the children's windows.	Use a paper fan you can make from a sheet of paper - to represent him blowing the dreams.
But he sees her, grabs her, puts her in his pocket and takes her to giant country!	Wrap a blanket around your child and rub their arms and shoulders as we are carried off to giant country.
Luckily he's a friendly giant, and in his cave he gives her frobscottle that makes them both whizzpop!	Blow raspberries! Or if you have a whoopie cushion or balloon squeeze it together to let the air out of it. The bad giants stomp past his cave saying they are going to eat all the school children in England.	For the giants stomping past - scrunch up kitchen foil or crisp bags to create the sound effect.
Sophie and the BFG asked the Queen to help. And she called the army to capture the giants.	Wear crowns and view these in a mirror. https://www.firstpalette.com/craft/paper-crown.html Or you can listen to this music : https://www.youtube.com/watch?v=jAJniMeESOU
The queen gets the army to capture the giants and lower them into a deep, dark pit.	Switch off the lights and use a torch to move around the room- encouraging tracking skills. Or create the darkness by moving the blanket over you.
They all celebrate and the Queen makes the BFG the royal dream blower, where he delivers beautiful dreams every night.	Use the fan or a light-weight scarf to waft around your child, to represent the drifting dreams.
